TPCoE training for employees of the General Directorate for Environmental Protection

On the 9th of May this year the experts of the TPCoE conducted a training in the General Directorate for Environmental Protection on building information security policy in the context of anti-terrorist prevention.

The meeting addressed issues related to the vectors of current threats, the interest of terrorist organizations in the information needed to plan and carry out an attack, and the role and elements needed to build a security policy.

The recommended behaviors of people managing the organization and the General Directorate for Environmental Protection employees, in particular during business trips, were also discussed.
