Training for PGE Mining and Conventional Power Generation

PGE

On 27 May, experts from TPCoE of the Internal Security Agency conducted a training course on anti-terrorist prevention for members of the management board and directors of branches of PGE Mining and Conventional Power Generation.

Officers from TPCoE discussed best practices and recommended behaviour in the event of a terrorist incident. During the training, issues related to counteracting radicalisation that can lead to violent extremism and terrorism were raised and knowledge about current hybrid threats was provided. Reference was also made to selected issues concerning the role of information in the process of building security policy of an organisation in the context of terrorist threats.
