TPCoE training for police officers on duty abroad

On 4 December, a TPCoE expert conducted a training course on counter-terrorism prevention for police officers on duty abroad.

During the training, various forms of threats from state and non-state actors were discussed. The aforementioned issues were presented against the background of the current geopolitical situation and covered various aspects related to the role of information in the context of shaping the desired level of security in the working environment.

At the same time, the meeting addressed the issue of dangerous contacts to which Polish personnel may be exposed while performing their duties at home and abroad.

The event was another educational initiative of this kind for the Police as part of TPCoE's efforts to foster countering information threats in the context of terrorism.
